

ANTI –BRIBERY AND ANTI-CORRUPTION CHARTER

Introduction

This document defines Control Risks' policy on the avoidance of bribery and corruption. It has the endorsement of the Group's Board of Directors and will be regularly reviewed by the Board to ensure that it reflects any changes in applicable laws and developments in acceptable standards for the conduct of business. Our company is committed to maintaining the highest ethical standards and vigorously enforces the integrity of its business practices wherever it operates throughout the world. The company will not engage in bribery or corruption. Adherence to the clear guidelines set out in this policy will ensure that the company and its employees comply with anti-bribery and anti-corruption laws and governmental guidance. The policy reflects the Board's wish to embed a culture of best practice in anti-bribery and anti-corruption measures, and enforcement of the policy will reduce the risk that the company or any employee will incur any criminal liability or reputational damage. Control Risks' staffs are expected to use their judgment not just to avoid malpractice but to promote good practice.

Scope

This policy applies to all Control Risks' employees worldwide.

1. Definitions

- Business integrity Business integrity involves the application of the company's core values. The opposite of integrity is dishonest behavior, including corruption that could undermine Control Risks' reputation for fair dealing.
- Bribery Bribery, in broad terms, is the receiving or offering of undue reward or anything of value and includes payments to secure a business advantage, financial or otherwise, to which the company is not entitled. Anything of value can be a bribe, including a gift in kind or some other favor such as an offer of employment to a relative of the person being bribed. It will involve the giver and the receiver in the improper performance of a personal, company or official responsibility.
- Corruption can include graft, bribery, facilitation payments or other forms of improper business practice. It has the same attributes as set out under Bribery above. It can be summarized as the misuse of entrusted power or office, whether in the public or private sector, for private gain.

- Kickbacks      Kickbacks arise when suppliers or service providers pay part of their fees to the individuals who give them the contract or some other business advantage.
- Facilitation      Facilitation payments are small bribes to officials with a view to speeding up routine governmental transactions to which the payer is already entitled. Examples include payments to speed up customs clearances and extra fees to officials to secure electricity connections.

2. Policy

2.1 Bribes and kickbacks

The company does not take part in acts of corruption, or pay bribes or receive kickbacks either directly or indirectly. The company prohibits its employees from engaging in acts of corruption, and from paying bribes or kickbacks to, or accepting bribes or kickbacks from, public officials and private individuals such as the personnel of companies with which the company does business. A typical example of indirect bribery would be a case where a company employs a commercial agent to help it win a government contract. The agent is paid by commission based on a percentage of the contract fee, and part of that commission is passed on to a government official. The company does not tolerate such practices in any form or wherever paid. It is the responsibility of all employees who are involved at any time in engaging the services of external consultants, suppliers or advisers to ensure that such individuals are made aware of the content of the company's Anti-Bribery and Anti-Corruption policy at the outset of the relationship and on a regular basis thereafter.

2.2 Facilitation payments

The company and its employees will not make facilitation payments even if such payments are local practice or custom. The company accepts that refusal to make illicit payments may lead to commercial delays, for example, in the processing of government papers, and that there may be a commercial cost to the company attributable to this policy. If company employees encounter a demand for a facilitation payment, or think they are likely to do so, they should report the situation to their line manager without delay. Line managers will then ensure that the Regional Director is informed at the earliest possible opportunity. The company recognizes that demands for facilitation payments are often backed by a form of extortion and that in exceptional circumstances resistance may not be feasible. An extreme example would be a demand for payment to secure an emergency admission into hospital. In such circumstances, the company accepts that staff will need to use their best judgment. Staff must report any incident where they feel forced to make a facilitation payment to their line manager at the earliest opportunity. The company will stand by employees who find themselves placed in exceptional situations provided that the employee has provided absolute transparency as to the circumstances.

2.3 Public officials

Bribing or corrupting a public official is a serious offence can carry severe penalties and can cause significant reputational damage. This policy provides detailed guidelines on gifts and hospitality. Approval must be secured in advance in relation to gifts or benefits received from or offered to public officials, particularly the giving of anything of value to a public official. Offers of internships to government officials or employees of state-owned enterprises must be approved in advance by the Global HR Director and the Group General Counsel.

2.4 Gifts, hospitality and expenses

Company employees may not offer to, or accept from, third parties, gifts, hospitality, rewards, benefits or other incentives that could affect either party's impartiality, influence a business decision or lead to the improper performance of an official duty. Similarly, they may not offer or accept cash donations. Company employees may offer and accept 'reasonable' and 'proportionate' gifts and entertainment, such as dinner, theatre parties or sporting events. In determining what is 'reasonable' and 'proportionate', employees should consider the value of the gift or benefit (see below), as well as the frequency with which the same or similar. Gift or benefit is offered. In all cases they must ensure that the gift or benefit:

- is being given as an expression of goodwill and not in expectation of a return favor (a gift designed to secure a return favor could be seen as a bribe).
- is commensurate with generally accepted standards for hospitality taking into account the norms for the industry/professional sector in which it is offered.
- is being provided openly and transparently, and is of a nature that will not cause the company embarrassment if publicly reported. • complies with local laws and regulations, including the recipient's own rules (bearing in mind that government rules on offering and receiving gifts or benefit are often particularly tight).
- meets the value limits set by the company and has all required approvals. In cases of uncertainty, employees must seek advice from their line managers.

2.5 Personal conflicts of interest

Company employees must avoid situations or transactions in which their personal interests could conflict or might be seen to be in conflict with the interests of the company. This includes: acting on any client information gained through their employment with the company for personal gain; passing such information to a third party; or acting in any way that could be construed as insider trading.

Conflicts of interest can arise if individuals have a personal interest in business dealings involving the company. Personal interest can be direct or indirect, and refers not only to personal interests but to those of family members and friends. If there is a potential for conflict, the interests of the company must take priority. Employees must disclose any personal conflict of interest or perceived conflict to their line manager. For company conflicts of interest see Conflicts of Interest policy.

2.6 Charitable donations

As part of its corporate citizenship activities, the company may support local charities or provide sponsorship, for example, to sporting or cultural events. Any such sponsorship must be transparent and properly documented. The company will only provide donations to organizations that serve a legitimate public purpose, and which are themselves subject to high standards of transparency and accountability. Appropriate due diligence must be conducted on the proposed recipient charity and a full understanding obtained as to its bona fides.

2.7 Political activities

The company has a policy of strict political neutrality; it does not make donations to any political parties, organizations, or individuals engaged in politics. The company will cooperate with governments and other official bodies in the development of policy and legislation that may affect its legitimate business interests, or where it has specialist expertise. Employees are entitled to their own political views and activities, but they may not use company premises or equipment to promote those views or associate their views with those of the company.

2.8 Business relationships

The company expects its business partners to approach issues of bribery and corruption in a manner that is consistent with the principles set out in this policy. This requirement applies to agents, subcontractors and joint venture partners. In cases where the company is unable to ensure these standards, it will reconsider the business relationship.

Agents, representatives and sub-contractors

This policy applies with particular force to commercial agents, representatives and subcontractors. In many reported international corruption cases, agents have passed on part of their commissions as bribes. The company prohibits such practices.

In order to maintain the highest standards of integrity, employees must ensure that:

- They are fully briefed on the background and reputation for integrity of agents, representatives and subcontractors before hiring them. The company will conduct due diligence enquiries to review the integrity records of agents, representatives and subcontractors before entering a commercial relationship with them.
- The engagement process is fully documented; and that final approval of the selection of agents, representatives and subcontractors is made by someone other than the person selecting or managing the company's relationship with them.
- Agents, representatives and subcontractors are fully briefed on the company's Anti-Bribery and Anti-Corruption policy, and have made a formal commitment in writing to abide by it.
- Fees and commissions agreed will be appropriate and justifiable remuneration for legitimate services rendered.

Once agreements have been signed, the company will continue to monitor its relationships with agents, representatives and subcontractors to ensure that there are no infringements of its Anti-Bribery and Anti-Corruption policy. Contractual agreements will include appropriate wording making it possible to withdraw from the relationship if agents, representatives or subcontractors fail to abide by this policy.

Joint venture partners

The need for documentation and careful reviews of the company's partners' integrity records applies equally to the process of setting up and managing joint ventures. The company will use its influence to ensure that joint ventures meet high integrity standards. Where the company has majority control, it will ensure that the joint venture adopts the concepts and approach to bribery and corruption as set out in this policy.

Suppliers and contractors

The company will ensure that the procurement procedure for appointing suppliers and contractors is open, fair and transparent. The selection of contractors will be based on an evaluation of professional merit, and not on personal recommendations. The company will communicate its Anti-Bribery and Anti-Corruption policy to its suppliers and contractors, and it will expect them to abide by the principles set out in the policy when working on the company's behalf. If those principles are breached, the company will reserve the right to terminate the contract.

3. Accounts and Audits

Control Risks' policies require employees to keep accurate accounts throughout the company's operations. In no circumstances will Control Risks' companies keep parallel accounts. Control Risks' regular auditing procedures will include a review of the local circumstances that may make particular offices or projects vulnerable to corruption, and the defenses and strategies that are in place to mitigate such risks. In some countries, demands for facilitation payments are a particular hazard. An assessment of the frequency of such demands, and the strategies to counter them, will be a regular part of the audit review.

4. Training

The company will make this policy available on the company's website for all employees. An e-learning program that encompasses the principles and approach to bribery and corruption adopted by the company will be made available to all employees and each employee will be required to confirm that he/she has undertaken the course within six months of its initial introduction or within six months of the employee joining the company. Regular training will be made available to all business units in relation to anti-bribery and anti-corruption measures, and the details of the company's whistle blowing procedures will be disseminated throughout the company on a regular basis.

5. Non-Compliance Company

Failure to ensure compliance with this policy could lead to the following consequences for the company:

- Criminal or civil liabilities for the company including unlimited fines and imprisonment;
- Serious reputational damage including media comment;
- Debarment from tendering for public sector contracts, and
- The unenforceability of contracts entered into as a result of acts of bribery, fraud or other illegality.
